Study reveals: changing attitudes can improve book distribution.

This study, the first of its kind, reveals three very significant things about physical distribution in the book industry. First, that every industry segment will try to cut inventories; second, that telecommunications technology, self-remaindering and standardization offer major benefits for book distribution; and, third, that there is misunderstanding among various segments of the industry on how key distribution decisions are made. The study is particularly intriguing for its unique focus—it probes each industry segment's opinions about the issues in the belief that reconciling differing attitudes may have more effect in solving distribution problems than statistical analyses.

When information is a priority– online is a necessity!

Now is the time for you to explore the benefits of online access to these Bowker databases–

BOOKS IN PRINT

Updated monthly and more often during peak periods, the Books in Print database offers unparalleled currency and ease of access to information on some 720,000 books published and exclusively distributed in the United States. Along with in-print titles, the BIP universe includes books that will be forthcoming in the next six months and books declared out-of-print since July 1979.

In addition to author, title, and subject, the BIP database can be searched online by key words in a title (an extremely useful feature when only part of a title is known), subtitle, series title, pub date, LCCN, language of publication, publisher, out-of-print or active status, and additional access points, which can be used alone or in combination.

ULRICH'S INTERNATIONAL PERIODICALS DIRECTORY

(Including IRREGULAR SERIALS AND ANNUALS)

Updated every four to six weeks, the Ulrich's database profiles some 110,000 regularly and irregularly issued serial publications from some 65,000 publishers in 181 countries. Information on some 12,000 titles that have ceased publication since 1974 is also included. In addition to title and subject access, Ulrich's online lets you search for serials by frequency of publication, country of publication, circulation, ISSN, Dewey Decimal Number, special features (such as inclusion of advertising, book reviews, etc.) active or inactive status, and more. You can also search for titles using "key word" techniques and you can combine access points to instantly locate those publications that meet your criteria.

AMERICAN MEN AND WOMEN OF SCIENCE

Completely updated in August 1982, the AMWS database includes biographical data on 130,500 U.S. and Canadian scientists currently active in the physical and biological sciences. Not only can this information be accessed by name, you can immediately identify scientists working in specific geographical locations, in specific disciplines, by educational background, earned degrees, honors and awards, personal statistics, or any combination of these and additional criteria.
